MILBURN CHERIAN

Mythical Realms, a solo exhibition by Milburn Cherian, features select paintings done over a period of the last decade. Milburn's paintings are sumptuous in their detail, populated by a large number of figures, charged with the energy of collective participation in a ritual or a sacred mystery. While her paintings build into a phantasmagoria, she structures her works meticulously, holding all the events in her frames together within subtle and shifting grids of perspective. Attentive to the merging of periods and styles, her paintings carry the memories of several cultures, continents and traditions.

Milburn Cherian is a graduate of the National Institute of Design (NID), Ahmedabad, where she studied visual communication. She is an autodidactic painter, whose education in the visual arts comes from her intensive reading of aesthetics and art history, and her study of artists to whose work she found herself attracted, especially Brueghel, Hieronymus Bosch, Caspar David Friedrich and Dali. Milburn has held several exhibitions in India, Germany and the UK, including Memento Mori at Art Musings (2008). Mythical Realms is Milburn's second solo exhibition with Art Musings.
